MEAL TIME

WEEK 1:

Ask a kid: When is it hardest for you to show respect?

Ask a parent: Share a story about a time when you showed respect even though you didn't feel like it.

WEEK 2:

Ask a kid: Have you ever felt disrespected by others because of something you couldn't control?

Ask a parent: What are some excuses you've used—or seen others use—for not giving people respect?

WEEK 3:

Ask a kid: Who in your world is often disrespected? What can you do about it?

Ask a parent: What are some of the reasons people don't respect others?

WEEK 4:

Ask a kid: Who is someone in authority that you owe respect?

Ask a parent: What is one thing we as a family can do to embrace an attitude of mutual respect?

WEEK 5:

Ask a kid: When you respect what God created, you also show respect to Him. What else has God made that you should respect?

Ask a parent: When you show respect for God's creation, how could it possibly change your relationship with God?

PARENT TIME

Parenting is like a visit to a great amusement park. There's the roller coaster of daily triumphs and tragedies. The scramble of juggling schedules. The carousel of maintaining routines. Sometimes you laugh and sometimes you cry. Other times, you're just plain tired. And like a visit to an amusement park, parenting is more fun when you're not alone.
